'WE WON'T BLOW UNSPENT LIGHTS CASH' VOW

Extra money collected from residents still lies in council coffers

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

THOUSANDS of pounds of taxpayers' money remains locked away as authorities stay tight-lipped over whether street lights in Harlow will be switched back on.

The part-night blackout was introduced by Essex County Council in March last year to save money and reduce emissions.

Currently, the lights go out at 1am, saving the county council about £1m a year.

But earlier this year Harlow Council offered to pay £121,000 – generated by a 1.5 per cent rise in council tax – to have the town's lights kept on.

The offer was rejected – but by then council tax bills had already been sent out.

Discussions

This week both authorities said discussions were ongoing but declined to comment further.

Meanwhile, the district council has said the money already paid by taxpayers would be protected.

A local government legal expert said that while the decision to take money from taxpayers without first getting confirmation from Essex County Council that it would accept the offer was clumsy, he did not think there would be any form of legal redress.

"I can imagine Harlow politicians thinking it's politically clever holding Essex to ransom, but I don't think there's scope to hypothecate finance in that way, particularly when you're not in control of the issue," he said.

"Unless Essex has agreed to it in some way and have created a legitimate expectation in law, I don't think there would be any legal redress.

"It's not the best strategy to announce something is going to happen where you have no control over it. It does show some maladroitness on behalf of Harlow Council."

Why some residents continue to voice their anger at the switch-off, others question the need to reverse the policy.

"Keep them off, it's a waste of energy and money to keep lights on through the night when the majority of people are tucked up in bed asleep or already at their place of work, working," said one. "You don't see lights on the M11 from London to Harlow or in the villages scattered across the country."

Rain fails to spoil celebrations marking Armed Forces Day

ARMED Forces Day was marked in Harlow on Saturday with a parade and open day organised by the town's branch of the Royal British Legion.

Led by the band of the Harlow Air Cadets, the parade started off from Tye Green Bowls Club and ended at the legion's premises at the Radburn Pavilion in Latton Common Road.

Harlow MP Robert Halfon joined branch president Charlie Smith and chairman Bob Hunt to take the opening salute. Also present were Harlow Council chairman Tony Hall and his deputy Edna Stevens.

Although rain forced the organisers to change the planned programme, visitors were still treated to performances by the ATC Band, a cannon run by the Harlow Sea Cadets and a demonstration of knot tying. The day ended with the playing of the Last Post. RBL branch secretary Carlo Pelka said: "Despite the rain arriving at the same time as the open day began, a good time was had by all who attended."

The event was sponsored by Joe Jennings Group, Fashion Avenue, Tiaras (The Stow), The New Inn, Tesco, Wilkinson, Couzens Bakery, RBL Club, Lee Connelly and Les Pearce.

Driver's parting gift to help children's charity

Estate trustees donate tens of thousands to Kisses4Kids

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A GENEROUS lorry driver who raised thousands of pounds for charity has made one last donation... two years after his death.

Chris Pratchett, 60, died after suffering a heart attack in April 2013. However, with no family members to inherit his estate, trustees decided to make donations worth tens of thousands of pounds to two charities.

The money was split between Comic Relief and Kisses4Kids, a local charity which provides treats for young people with life-limiting and terminal illnesses and has raised money to buy equipment for Harlow's Princess Alexandra Hospital.

The £78,338 donation to Kisses4Kids is the single biggest amount it has received.

The charity was started by Stacey Johnson who, having spent long periods of time as a teenager in hospital receiving treatment for a brain tumour, wanted to do something to ease the boredom and brighten the lives of children and young people who had experienced illness.

Since becoming a registered charity in 2008, Kisses4Kids has helped hundreds of children to enjoy days out and family trips and has paid for a sensory room and outside play area at PAH.

Claire Hope, from the Hoddesdon depot of Sainsbury's where Mr Pratchett worked and whose charity of the year is Kisses4Kids, said he regularly raised funds and made donations to worthy causes.

"Chris would work a shift in March every year and donate the money to Comic Relief," she said. "He would also donate to our local charity through raffles and collections."

Mr Pratchett had worked as a driver at the Rye Park depot for 36 years, initially under a series of contractors before the supermarket chain brought the operation in-house.

His funeral was organised by his former colleagues. Ms Hope said: "Chris sadly didn't have any family to organise his funeral so friends stepped in to give their late workmate a fitting send-off."

A spokeswoman for Kisses4Kids said: "Thank you does not seem strong enough. We hope to make Chris proud with how we spend the money."

Second runway at Stansted may be an 'inevitable' long-term option – council leader

THE construction of a second runway at Stansted Airport after 2030 may be an "inevitable option" in the long term, according to the leader of Essex County Council.

Supporting the recommendation in the report of a commission chaired by Sir Howard Davies that a third runway should be built at Heathrow, Cllr David Finch said it was the most viable option.

But he added the council believed Stansted should be an important airport of trade and commerce as well as one for short breaks and holidays.

"Sensible growth at Stansted can benefit the UK and the Essex economy," he said. "It is one of the many factors that make Essex the place to be."

His prediction of a second runway at Stansted related to long-term growth, but in the short to medium term he called on the Government to accept the recommendations of the report.

"We believe a third runway at Heathrow is the most viable option now," he said. "It's affordable, practical and consolidates Heathrow's position as the UK's central airport."

Strengthening

Harlow MP Robert Halfon said he welcomed the fact that the report, which was published yesterday (Wednesday), did not call for a second runway at Stansted but instead supported strengthening its existing capacity.

He said: "With over 17 million people using Stansted every year, strengthening the existing capacity is vital to ensure a better service for everyone."

Campaign group Stop Stansted Expansion said it was relieved the report did not include immediate building at Stansted but questioned the need for any new runways at all.

It accused the aviation industry of exaggerating demand, claiming business travel has been in decline for 15 years and now accounted for less than a sixth of all international travel from UK airports.

SSE chairman Peter Sanders said: "Ten years ago Stansted was first in the queue for a new runway to serve London. This report marks a remarkable turnaround and that must come as a great relief to our local community."

"It looks as if it will be the end of this year before the Government makes its final decisions and, having regard to the likelihood of legal challenges, there may well be a longer period of uncertainty. Whatever the timescale, SSE will continue to play a full part in the debate."

Town Park fun run starts liver scanner appeal

Hospital charity seeking to raise £80,000

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

A FUNDRAISING campaign to buy a hospital scanner for patients with liver disease has been launched in Harlow.

The Long Live Liver appeal has been started by the Princess Alexandra Hospital NHS Trust Charitable Fund.

Its target is to raise £80,000 to purchase the state-of-the-art scanner which is used to support the diagnosis of liver disease without the need for invasive and sometimes painful liver biopsies.

Liver disease is the fifth biggest killer in England and Wales behind heart disease, cancer, stroke and respiratory disease. It claims more lives than diabetes and road accident deaths combined.

On Sunday more than 30 people took part in a 5k fun run in Harlow Town Park to get the appeal under way.

The event was the brainchild of Dr Deb Ghosh, a consultant gastroenterologist at PAH. It is one of many fundraisers that he and his team will be organising during the coming year under the Long Live Liver banner.

Liver functions

- processing digested food from the intestine
- controlling levels of fats, amino acids and glucose in the blood
- combating infections in the body
- clearing the blood of particles and infections including bacteria
- neutralising and destroying drugs and toxins
- manufacturing bile
- storing iron, vitamins and other essential chemicals
- breaking down food and turning it into energy
- manufacturing, breaking down and regulating various hormones including sex hormones

source: British Liver Trust

"While deaths in younger people from illnesses such as cancer, diabetes and strokes have been decreasing in recent years, deaths in people under 65 from liver disease have been rising at an alarming rate," he said.

"Our current lifestyles, including drinking alcohol and eating fatty foods, have contributed to this sharp increase but there have also been rises in cases of viral hepatitis and non-alcoholic liver disease."

Dr Ghosh added: "We decided to organise this fun run as a warm-up to a larger event in Harlow on September 27 in Harlow."

"We hope to have more than 200 people at this family-friendly event where people can run anywhere from 2k to 10k to support the scanner appeal."

The fun run will be supported by a health awareness fair at which people can learn more about how to improve their lifestyle while still having fun.

"I would like to thank everyone who supported Sunday's event despite the weather and would encourage the people of Harlow, and further afield, to join us on the September 27 or to support the scanner appeal in any way they can."

The Princess Alexandra Hospital's Charity was set up to support the hospital's patients, staff and visitors. Its goal is to enhance patient care, purchase special pieces of equipment, improve facilities and invest in research which is beyond the scope or limits of the NHS.

PAH can cure parking pain

SIR As a local councillor as well as the cabinet member who deals with parking, I would like to add my support to many of the concerns expressed in the letter in last week's Star headlined "Town parking is a real pain".

It is completely true that when we introduce a new parking scheme the people who cause the problem just move to the next road or estate.

Harlow estates were never designed for the volume of cars and work vans that are used by local residents. More and more companies now allow drivers to take vehicles home and many households have more than one car.

The council doesn't just introduce new schemes. All are requested by local residents and the council then has a duty to consult those in the area affected. Change can only occur if the majority of those responding want it.

We have just completed such a process in Bishopscote. On many occasions during the consultation new ideas and solutions are found.

The biggest single issue for Hare Street and the surrounding area is the lack of parking at Princess Alexandra Hospital.

It reduced the parking when it built the temporary ward. Now we are told they want to open a new clinic which will further reduce parking provision.

The hospital authorities could solve the problem and ease the pressure on the area by dusting off the design for a new multi-storey car park similar to the one at Harlow Town station.

Parking on the local streets is mainly caused by staff who either work part-time or who can't apply for a parking permit in the hospital grounds. Speak to any staff member and they will tell you how they drive around praying to find a space.

So the local solution on this issue lies with the hospital, not the council. I would urge all residents to write to the chief executive of the hospital and ask him to step up and take positive action.

In the meantime, the council will work with residents to find local solutions.

Not best use of resources

SIR In your article headlined "Plight of families forced to live in overcrowded homes" (Star, June 25), Cllr Rod Truan, Harlow Council's portfolio holder for housing, states: "The council is doing what it can with the resources it has available to provide additional homes to help towards tackling the affordable housing shortage."

That is a really strange thing for him to say when he is fully aware that in just Harlow Common alone there have been 20 flats vacant for over 10 years. Kingsmoor House has been empty for almost as long and four houses were demolished over 10 years ago for the Clifton Hatch development that was finally started nine years later.

The development has now provided pitifully few homes for rent for people on the council's waiting list and then only on a one-off basis, which means that once the first tenants move on the council no longer has any allocation rights.

READER photo of the week

■ This week's photo was sent in by Emma Jones, of Wyldwood Close, Old Harlow. "I discovered this amazing bee orchid growing in my front lawn," she writes. "What a great excuse to get out of mowing the grass."

Where are the families who will need rehousing during the council's Priority Estates programme going to be housed and what effect is that going to have on the waiting list?

Added to this, the ring-fenced Housing Revenue Account (council house rent receipts) has considerable funds moved into the council's General Fund (council tax receipts).

I see a lot of new officers but the quality and quantity of the services that the council provide its residents just keeps getting worse.

Is this what Cllr Truan means by doing what it can with the resources it has available?

Shortage of nursing staff

SIR I see Princess Alexandra Hospital is looking to recruit more nurses. Heavens, do they need them.

If anyone has had to visit the hospital lately they will know how short it is of nurses.

The nurses they have are having to work 12-hour shifts and the care of patients is being affected through no fault of the nursing staff.

From what I've seen they all work hard in difficult conditions due to the lack of personnel.

Hospice filled with laughter

SIR I am writing in response to the article in last week's Star about St Clare Hospice's support of the #notdingy campaign.

Just recently I have been diagnosed with terminal cancer which is affecting both lungs. Because of the risk of affecting a 13-year-old heart bypass, I have been told I will not be undergoing surgical treatment.

The purpose of this letter is to let everyone know what, in my opinion, a wonderful place St Clare Hospice is.

I have been attending occupational therapy sessions at St Clare. When I was offered a place on this six-week course I thought at first it was not for me, but I am glad to say that I have met the most caring people your could ever wish to meet.

I am sure my fellow patients have had a few hours relief from the pain they suffer. There is a lot of laughter and a lot of care from staff in many ways.

My thanks go out to all the staff for their real devotion to their patients.

The hospice is a nicely decorated and clean building in a lovely setting with an air of peace.

Help survey on meningitis

SIR Many of your readers will have seen the good news that two new life-saving meningitis vaccination programmes will begin this summer.

These measures will save lives straight away and for years to come. Here at Meningitis Now – the founder of the meningitis movement and the only charity dedicated to fighting meningitis in the UK – we're delighted to see them being rolled out. Our Beat it Now! campaign over the past two years has been pushing for this to happen.

However, this doesn't mean meningitis is beaten. There are still strains for which there is no vaccine available and there will still be people who are not protected by these vaccine programmes.

There are also people struggling to rebuild their lives following their experience of meningitis. At Meningitis Now we want to hear about these experiences so we can improve how we help. If any readers are aged 16 or over and have either had meningitis or a family member or close friend has, we would like to hear from you.

By taking part in our Meningitis and Me survey they will be making a really important contribution to our work, improving our understanding of your needs, wants and aspirations and helping to inform our priorities for support, research, awareness and campaigning.

As a charity it's vital that we exist and succeed because we make a real difference to people's lives. Telling us how we can better do this will play a big part in shaping our future.

Please visit our website at www.MeningitisNow.org for more information or to take part.

Girl Guide Olivia presented with an achievement award

A TEENAGER from Harlow was one of 84 from Girl Guiding Essex West to be presented with Jack Petchey Achievement Awards.

During the ceremony held at Hornchurch all the winners received medallions.

They were nominated by their peers and leaders, winning awards for a variety of achievements but mostly for simply doing their best.

Among them was 14-year-old Olivia Howland from the 1st Tye Green troop. She has been a Guide for more than two years and during that time she has grown in confidence and proved a great help in her patrol with activities.

Four adults were also honoured and were presented with leader awards.

Girl Guiding Essex West has received £422,000 from the Jack Petchey Foundation since funding started in 2001.

Now celebrating its 15th year, the Jack Petchey Foundation was established in 1999 to recognise the positive contributions young people make to society.

Boy, 12, chased by man after attempted robbery

A SCHOOLBOY walking home from school was chased by a man after refusing to hand over his mobile phone during an attempted robbery.

The 12-year-old was walking along Tendring Road, Harlow, at 3.45pm on Wednesday, June 17 when a man, who was sitting behind a bus stop, approached him and unzipped the boy's rucksack.

The man demanded he hand over his phone and keys but the boy refused and ran off into Kingsland, followed by the suspect.

The man is described as in his mid-20s, 5ft 11ins tall and skinny. He spoke in a foreign accent, possibly eastern European, and had a long nose, bushy eyebrows, brown eyes and a moustache.

He wore black leather gloves, a navy blue hooded top with a white letter 'T' on the back, ripped black trousers and black shoes and carried a white plastic carrier bag.

Police are appealing for witnesses or anyone with information about the incident to call Harlow CID on the non-emergency 101 number.

Redevelopment plans for hotel

Grade II listed building will be refurbished

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

PLANS to redevelop the Grade II listed Churchgate Hotel site in Old Harlow have been submitted to Harlow Council.

Developers hope to be given permission to demolish the central section of the existing hotel to create 32 new residential units made up of houses and apartments.

Under the plans the existing replica wing would be converted into 12 affordable flats while alterations would be made to the hotel building to form 13 guest bedrooms, a restaurant, bar and staff facilities.

The proposals also involve the creation of a new access road through the existing gateway to Hobbs Cross Road to the east of the site opposite Elmbridge Road.

A new access driveway along the west boundary would be created leading a parking court.

The plans are currently subject to a public consultation before going in front of Harlow Council's development management committee.

The refurbishment of the existing building to create a smaller "boutique hotel" has been supported in the community, who believe there is a local need for the facility.

"The building is in such a state due to the previous owners," said Robbie Hutchin on the Star's Facebook page. "I believe the developers will do a great job of returning this building to a feature of Churchgate Street again."

However, some residents questioned the need for more housing.

"Harlow needs better roads a bigger hospital more schools and huge investment in the town centre as it is," said Danny Ede. "The last thing it needs is more people moving to the area."

The plans are available for viewing on the council's website, www.harlow.gov.uk.

airfield at the weekend to enjoy an excellent display of radio-controlled wizardry

WINGS AND WHEELS: A plane takes to the sky at North Weald Airfield

Simon Murfitt

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

IT IS not every day you get to see a tank from the Second World War in action, a ship from the Spanish Armada sailing and a Second World War fighter plane take to the skies.

But that was the case at the Wings and Wheels event at North Weald airfield at the weekend when around 10,000 visitors also looked on at model trucks, hovercraft, cars, i-drones and Daleks.

The yearly event, which is the UK's longest running radio control model show, was a great success with the sun shining brightly on the scores of visitors to the airfield.

"I've done the show for 25 years and Saturday was the best day we have ever had in terms of people through the gate," said show director, Jane Stephenson.

Showers

"The showers on Sunday lunchtime did spoil it a bit because it stopped the model flying for about three hours but it was still very good."

The two-day spectacular saw a 40-foot temporary pool erected for boat displays, as well as a huge range of model planes, some to scale, being flown by world famous model pilots.

"There was a First World War simulator that people could sit in and we also had model trucks that did a convoy on Saturday evening all the way down our walkway - 54 trucks in a line," added Mrs Stephenson.

"The main attraction was the flying and we had some pilots

BOYS AND THEIR TOYS: Anxious glances are cast skywards as model fans pilot their aircraft

REAL THING: A Spitfire lands at North Weald

POPULAR DRAW: Plenty enjoyed their day out over from Belgium flying to scale models and Gregg Hayfield flying a three quarter scale Pitts Python and they did fantastic displays.

"For the enthusiasts that was the attraction and we were lucky enough to see a Spitfire and the Gnat Display Team from the airfield doing a fly display." Mrs Stephenson said she was already looking ahead to next year's event. "It will be the 30th anniversary of the event next year and the 100th anniversary of the airfield. We don't know what we'll do yet but we'll have to think about it."

From next year cigarettes will be sold in standardised packets but will it help smokers quit?

Is plain packaging just a smokescreen?

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

ENCASED in a murky green wrapping adorned with gory images, the new generation of cigarette packets are anything but cool and sexy.

From May 2016 all advertising will be removed from boxes and instead cigarettes will be sold in plain packaging.

Health experts have argued that such moves will be key in helping smokers to quit the habit. They point to towns like Harlow, which has a higher than average number of smokers as communities that have the most to gain from the move.

The statistics for Harlow are more in keeping with England's north east than the south and it is in the highest band for the cost of hospital admissions attributable to smoking.

So could new packaging be a key factor in persuading the town's smokers to call it a day? If what happened in Australia is anything to go by, the answer could well be yes. Tobacco sales there dropped by 12 per cent when similar measures were introduced in 2013.

With 100,000 people a year dying in the UK from smoking-related causes and where the mortality rate for Harlow stands at 200 per 100,000 head of population, it is a powerful statistic and one that encouraged 367 MPs to vote in

Fact file: Smoking in the UK

- About 10 million adults in the UK (21 per cent of men and 19 per cent of women) are smokers.
- Two-thirds of smokers start before the age of 18.
- It costs the National Health Service approximately £2bn a year to treat diseases caused by smoking.
- About 77 per cent of the price of a packet of cigarettes consists of taxation.
- 2,000 children aged 11-15 start smoking each year.

Source: ASH (Action on Smoking and Health) favour of a ban on branded cigarette packets.

Hazel Cheeseman, from the tobacco action charity ASH, said: "The reason Harlow could have a higher number of smokers is because people from poorer backgrounds tend to start smoking at a much younger age, making it harder to quit."

"Children are, therefore, growing up in an environment where they see it as natural to be smoking."

She argues that Harlow's problem could also be a solution as children would now only be exposed to negative tobacco branding which in turn impact, and subsequently change, their perceptions of the habit.

As children in Harlow are more likely to have a parent who smokes, they are more likely to develop a negative perception of the habit through seeing non-aesthetically pleasing packets.

However, the ban does have its critics. In a blog written shortly after 113 MPs opposed the change, Harlow MP Robert Halfon explained: "I voted against because I believe in freedom to choose. "Fifteen people die every day from alcohol-related problems, but should we cover up wine bottles? In my view no."

Education

"The best way to cut smoking is through tax and education. I have had concerns from newsagents worried about their trade and jobs because of the likely rise in smuggling illicit tobacco."

His views were echoed across social media, with many people saying the concept is flawed.

Posting on the Star's Facebook page, Gareth Williams wrote: "Personally I think it is a silly idea. Tax and education are more off-putting than branding which creates jobs."

Michelle Doherty commented: "People don't buy cigarettes for the pretty little pictures and decorations on the boxes, they buy them because they are addicted."

"If kids want to smoke they will because they see their friends and family doing it and they think it's cool. I don't think the new packaging will change anything."

And her comments were echoed by Susan Wackett, who said: "People who want to smoke always will. I do think however that there are less young people smoking today than 20 years ago."

In 2012 legislation came into effect which forced all large shops and supermarkets in England to cover up cigarettes and hide tobacco products from public view.

And while an attempt to remove conventional cigarette packaging would have been inconceivable at the turn of the century, to many it now feels like the logical next step.

Critics, including the powerful tobacco industry lobby, believe this latest attempt will have an insignificant impact but Ms Cheeseman is confident that real change will happen.

"I would not expect to see the new packaging to take effect straight away but it will make a difference in persuading a new generation to not smoke," she said.

"When advertising was banned, for years there was not much difference, but then all of a sudden there was a big drop. I think that is telling."

For the time being Harlow will continue to puff above its weight. Only time will tell whether a new generation will choose to follow their forefathers down the smoking road.

'Football was a big part of my dad's life'

Tributes to ex-Harlow Town manager

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

TRIBUTES have been paid to former Harlow Town FC player and manager Dave Edwards, who has died at the age of 67.

Mr Edwards, of Elmbridge, Old Harlow, passed away on Thursday after a long illness. His family were by his side.

Born in Willesden, Mr Edwards moved to Harlow when he was 14 and quickly established himself on the local football scene, playing in the Harlow Minors League before moving up to the seniors.

As a tough and uncompromising defender, he played for Harlow Town more than 120 times and scored nine goals but it was as a manager that he will best be remembered.

He took charge of the club from 1985 to 1994 and during that time was manager for more than 500 games.

His legendary status was secured when he stayed at the club after it was dissolved in the 1992-93 season and rebuilt a competitive side from scratch. He also had spells in charge of Bishop's Stortford, Stansted, Saffron Walden, Ware, Hertford and Bromley.

Mr Edwards also ran his own courier business.

Wembley

His son, Andy, said: "Football was a big part of dad's life. I have been told he was a great centre half during his playing days and I was lucky enough to follow the teams he managed. I was sitting in the dugout at Wembley when he won the FA Vase in 1984.

"Everybody tells me what a great man he was. I can only say he was the best, husband, father and grandfather you could have ever wished for and he will be missed immensely."

Mr Edwards' daughter-in-law Kelly added: "From close friends to the occasional acquaintance, people always had good things to

Death of former town councillor and activist for disability rights

A FORMER Labour councillor who represented the wards of Old Harlow and Nettewell during the 1970s and '80s has died.

Michael Gerrard, who was 81, passed away in Bidford-on-Avon earlier this month.

Born in Paddington in 1934, Mr Gerrard studied at Oxford where he gained a degree in politics, economics and philosophy before joining the Royal Navy.

He became a member of the Labour Party when he moved to west Essex and served as both secretary and chairman of the former Epping Constituency Labour Party, which at the time included Harlow.

Candidate

After moving to the town, he was elected to the council in 1972, at first representing Old Harlow and later Nettewell. He also stood as the Labour parliamentary candidate in the east Walthamstow constituency.

A key activist in the campaign to help the chronically sick and disabled, Mr Gerrard worked to achieve the benefits which were included in the Chronically Sick & Disabled Persons Act which was introduced by the Labour MP Alf Morris MP.

He was also a prominent member of the anti-apartheid movement.

Mr Gerrard left Harlow to take up the position of chief executive of the Shetland Islands. When he retired he moved to Bidford-on-Avon and became chairman of Stratford-upon-Avon Constituency Labour Party.

He is survived by his wife, Heather, four children and six grandchildren.

Charges for meal service to be frozen

County to deliver improvements

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE cost of the Meals on Wheels service in Essex is to be frozen for the next 12 months.

Essex County Council has agreed to keep the charge at the current level while at the same time improve the service.

As part of the decision, a one-year extension has been agreed to the county's existing Meals on Wheels service.

Following discussions between the county council and the service provider Sodexo, a pilot group of 120 people across the county will also be given the opportunity to choose their meal option from a greater range of sources.

They will be consulted on a one-to-one basis and will be offered a variety of meal options.

County Hall, working alongside local voluntary and health groups and community providers, will identify suitable services such as lunch and casserole clubs as well as helping with meal preparation and the purchase of suitable equipment.

Councillors agreed that the involvement of local groups with residents both at home and in their neighbourhood would not only cater for their nutritional needs but also identify those at risk of social isolation.

Council leader David Finch said: "This is all about improving the service people currently get by offering a greater choice and variety of meals, either in their home or within the local community."

"We will continue to provide meals on wheels to everyone who needs them. We remain committed to ensuring that our older residents across the county have access to an affordable and nutritious hot meal."

"And the best thing about this new approach is that we will work with local communities and volunteers to deliver meals that are tailored to each individual needs."

Residents' craft skills are put to good use

DELICIOUS: Residents with some of the cakes they baked

RESIDENTS at a housing scheme for people with learning disabilities in Harlow used their creative skills to raise money for a hospital neonatal unit.

The residents of Livingstone House, in Potter Street, worked on a range of arts and crafts during Learning Disability Week, using a range of materials including paints, scrap and cardboard.

Their work will be put on display and then auctioned off to raise money for Keep Me Close appeal to raise funds for new and improved accommodation for parents of babies in the neonatal intensive care unit at Derriford Hospital in Plymouth.

They also baked and sold cakes for the campaign.

Leigh Carrigan, local service manager for Sanctuary Supported Living which runs Livingstone House, said: "Personal development is key to the service we provide here."

"This project is the perfect way to both nurture and showcase our residents' skills while raising money for a worthwhile cause, which means everyone benefits."

Trio receive teaching excellence certificates

THREE teachers at schools in Harlow have received national recognition after winning Essex Teaching Awards.

Winners from February's ETA were put forward by Essex County Council for this year's Pearson Teaching Awards, a national scheme celebrating excellence in education.

Of those, 13 have now been awarded Certificates of Excellence in recognition of their work. They include Joanna Clark and Anne Slayford from Burnt Mill Academy and Angela Brister from William Martin Primary School.

Achievement

Joanna and Angela won lifetime achievement awards at the ETAs while Anne took the Secondary School Teacher title.

Cllr Ray Gooding, Essex County Council's cabinet member for education and lifelong learning, said: "I would like to offer my congratulations to all Essex teachers who have been recognised through the Pearson Teaching Awards."

"Following the success of Essex Teaching Awards earlier this year, it is excellent to now see a number of our winners also being recognised on a national level. We are lucky to have some fantastic teachers and support staff at schools in this county and these achievements are testament to their hard work and dedication."

DIGGING IN: Volunteers gave up a Saturday morning to create the plots at Cooks Spinney Primary

Forks at the ready but will children dig this?

THE wartime spirit of dig for victory came to the fore when Cooks Spinney Primary School in Harlow embarked on a new allotment project.

A team of 13 volunteers gave up a Saturday morning to create the plots for each year group at the school.

The project is being partly funded by cash raised from the school's recent mini-marathon and also from donations from local businesses, B&Q and the Van Hage Garden Centre.

Head of school Stuart Pope said: "Pupils will now be encouraged to grow their own produce and understand that process. It is a fundamental life skill which we can now offer to our children."

"The site of the allotments was just a piece of ground but now it is being put to great use."

Picnic benches will be put in place while pathways around the school pond have been cleared and secret gardens created to inspire creating writing and reading for pleasure.

Students' language lessons app is Ghana be a winner

New software prints randomised text to help foreign pupils learn

SMART: UTC students who designed an app

William Mata

william.mata@hertssexnews.co.uk

A GROUP of innovative students at the Sir Charles Kao UTC in Harlow have developed an app to help pupils in Ghana learn English.

The students were commissioned by the Department for Education to work on the project to design an app that repurposes old technology to operate a receipt printer.

The app prints off randomised text that enables young students to practice their English.

It is expected the project will expand beyond Ghana, helping thousands of students throughout the developing world.

Ashley Isbitt, a Year 12 student who acted as group leader of the project, said: "It was a new experience for all involved and will greatly help other students develop their programming knowledge in a practical way."

UTC principal Michael McKeveney said: "I am incredibly proud of the talent and skills of our students, who successfully managed and completed this project.

"Projects like this enable our talented students to use their abilities for the greater good. I am full of pride with the effect on learning their app will have in other parts of the world."

Female

Despite the fact that girls often achieve the best science results at GCSE only six per cent of engineers in the UK are female.

The college hosted various activities to mark NWED, including a discussion by a panel of experts on the opportunities and problems that face women entering the world of engineering.

UTC deputy principal Emma Abegglen said: "Our students had a fantastic day celebrating the achievements of women engineers and particularly enjoyed listening to our esteemed panel."

"I hope that events like this can work to increase the numbers of women taking up careers in the science, technology, engineering and mathematics fields."

"We offer the best pathway into the STEM (science, technology, English and maths) field in Harlow through our work with employer partners and our innovative and dynamic curriculum and would encourage any students with an interest in these subjects to join our school."

Emily at St Paul's for Waterloo ceremony

PUPILS at a Harlow secondary school have marked the 200th anniversary of Britain's victory over the Emperor Napoleon at the Battle of Waterloo.

Stewards Academy, in Parnall Road, was one of 200 schools chosen to be represented at the bicentenary celebrations held in St Paul's Cathedral.

Year 8 pupil Emily Oliver joined deputy headteacher Marie Erwood at the ceremony which was attended by Prince Charles, the Duchess of Cornwall, Prince Edward and the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester.

"It was such an honour to be invited to such a prestigious event and to hear such moving accounts of the Battle of Waterloo," said Emily.

Mrs Erwood added: "This is a really memorable way to bring history to life. During the service we listened to descendants of some of the men who were in the battle as they read accounts of the Battle of Waterloo and its aftermath."

Back at school, pupils Max Lejis and Charlie Neville were given the task of researching local soldier Sergeant Joseph Boulcott, who served as baggage master for the Duke of Wellington.

Under the supervision of history teacher Colin Hawk, the boys rose to the challenge and put all their research online into a special Waterloo 200 e-book, which can be found at theonlinebookcompany.com/OnlineBooks/SchoolsWaterloo/Toc/Index.

Showing real enterprise at Kingsmoor

PUPILS at Kingsmoor Academy were taught some tips of the trade during an enterprise day.

Children in Year 6 at the Ployers Road primary took part in the day run by the Young Enterprise Company. They learned about managing money, giving a presentation and selling and were also asked to come up with ideas for an enterprise.

They worked together and everyone received a certificate at the end.

Year 6 teacher Angie Atkins said: "For us it is important to make children aware of the business world and teach them about the world of work as the leave Kingsmoor and go into secondary school. "It was very successful and children were excited and keen to learn important new skills."

Mrs Atkins added that innovative projects like the business day were key to moving the school forward.

Parents struggle to provide food and heat for children

Harlow has one of the highest rate of child poverty in the region

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

THOUSANDS of children in Harlow are living in families caught in the poverty trap, according to a national campaign group.

End Child Poverty found parents are cutting back on food and heating as they struggle to cope as child benefit and child tax credit rates fall below inflation.

According to its analysis, 7,400 Harlow families with children have been affected by the mismatch in figures with the number of children hit totalling a significant 12,900.

The town has one of the highest rates in the eastern region, with only Luton and Peterborough significantly higher. The figures also showed one in five families have difficulty providing food and heating.

Worrying

David Holmes chairman of End Child Poverty which is supported by more than 150 organisations, said: "It is deeply worrying that parents are having to cut back on food, heating and other essentials that their children need in order to develop and thrive."

"We think it is vital that child benefits keep pace with the cost of living and that the Government gives them the same protection as the state pension."

"This is an opportunity to be bold and to invest in our children's future."

He added: "During the election cam-

Child poverty fact file

- There are currently 3.5 million children living in poverty in the UK.
- 63 per cent of children living in poverty in the UK are in a family where someone works.
- 1.6 million children are growing up in homes which are too cold
- 59 per cent of children in the poorest fifth of households have parents who would like to, but cannot afford to take their children for a holiday away from home for one week a year. This only applies to 6 per cent of children in the richest fifth.
- 41 per cent of children in the poorest fifth of households are in families who can't afford to replace broken electrical goods, compared with just 3 per cent of children in the richest households.

source: Barnardo's

paign David Cameron promised not to cut child benefit. Now is the time for him to keep that pledge."

Harlow MP Robert Halfon defended the Government's record and pointed to the fact that there are now 300,000 fewer children in relative poverty and 31 million people in work.

He said: "As MP for Harlow, I have a passion for helping the lowest paid."

"With more jobs, lower taxes for lower earners, free school meals and the pupil premium, we should go some way to carry on reducing child poverty."

"I have worked hard for measures such as the Pupil Premium and ensuring free school meals for all children, including those attending further education colleges."

"The new Conservative government remains committed to reducing poverty – and child poverty in particular – and will follow the targets set out in its Child Poverty Strategy 2014-17."

"Good news for struggling families is coming also from the economy as a whole."

Since March, inflation has been below 0 with fuel and food prices 2.8 per cent lower than in April 2014, while wages are on the up."

The effect of child poverty in the town is turning an increasing number of families to Harlow Foodbank to put meals on plates.

Foodbanks, which provide emergency bundles of tinned and dried food to desperate families, have grown year on year since setting up in 2009 and have provided more than 15,000 emergency meals.

The service recently posted feedback they have received in which several users praised its "lifesaving" work.

Emergency

Gary Knott, director of community services for Harlow Foodbank commented: "We continue to experience a high level of families with children referred to us for emergency food by front-line care professionals and in the last financial year we fed 3,726 people, of which 1,247 were children."

"We are also now working with eight local primary school breakfast clubs in Harlow, and one in Ongar, to ensure that children who receive pupil premium (free school meals) also get a nutritious breakfast at the start of each school day."

"It is well recorded by educational professionals that a breakfast each morning before school greatly enhances children's attentiveness in class and their educational attainment, giving them the opportunity in life that they deserve."

Academy appoints new head

FORMER associate headteacher John Blaney has been appointed head of school at Harlow's Burnt Mill Academy.

Mr Blaney will work with outgoing head of school Helena Mills, who now heads up the Burnt Mill Co-operative Academy Trust.

The move will enable Ms Mills to focus on improving standards across the trust's six schools which includes Burnt Mill Academy in Harlow, Forest Hall in Stansted and six Harlow primaries.

She said: "I am completely committed to this family of schools. The core values I brought to Burnt Mill will still be here and I will be personally ensuring those values run through every corner and every corridor of all of our schools."

Ms Mills and Mr Blaney have worked together closely for 17 years. When Mr Blaney joined Burnt Mill in 2010, he was tasked with transforming teaching.

His work was rewarded when the school was graded 'outstanding' for teaching in the new rigorous Ofsted framework.

Mr Blaney said: "I know it is through an excellent education that our students will be able to achieve their full potential. I'm delighted to work with a very talented team of outstanding teachers who will continue to provide your sons and daughters with the world class education they deserve."

In Memoriam

Murtagh "John"
HOGAN

In Loving Memory of John Hogan, 1930-2015.

Greatly missed by his beloved wife Monica and children Sarah, Chris, Celia, Barbara, Felicity and grandchildren; his brother Terry and sisters Nora, Mary, Tess and all their extended families.

His mother was a widow, his father having died of injuries sustained in wars of earlier years abroad. He was 7 years old when his father died. Born in London, John remembers playing, along with his brother Terry, among the headstones at Highgate Cemetery. He attended Hackney Downs Grammar School, and as an evacuee, King Edward V11 Grammar School in Kings Lynn.

On returning to London, he joined the Law Courts, obtaining his qualification at Holborn College of Law. After the death of his mother, he and Nora kept the rest of the family together.

Throughout his career, he always cared for social outcasts and the deprived.

He loved walking in England and abroad and belonged to the St Francis of Assisi Catholic Rambling club, where he later met Monica. In 1956, they came to live in Upper Park, Harlow, close to St Thomas More Church, where the parish priest Fr Gerard Hughes asked him to form a choir. A dedicated team of musicians and singers well known in the parish were soon rehearsing and singing with enthusiasm and enjoyment, attending many events. There are fond memories of the choir's New Year's Eve celebrations!

John also found time to sing with Brentwood Cathedral Choir and BBC Club Choir. In 1972 John, Monica and their five children moved to Old Harlow.

A kind and good man, John died suddenly and peacefully in the A+E Unit, Princess Alexandra Hospital on January 18th 2015.

Gratitude to Fr Michael Butler, Fr James Hawes, Deacon Mike Smith and Fr Leszek for the beautiful Requiem Mass at the church of the Assumption Mulberry Green and all relations, Kinsella family and friends attending.

Sarah, Chris, Celia, Barbara and Felicity wish to thank everyone for all the many cards, messages of sympathy and masses received.

Thanks also to all the medical team, nurses, carers and friends whose loving care and attention on his last days was unsurpassed.

Donations, if wished, to the Legion of Mary Headquarters in Dublin for their missionary work around the world please.

Opinions sought on 'major local issues'

Ken Morley

star@hertsexnews.co.uk

A SERIES of public events will be held by North Weald Bassett Parish Council to update residents on issues which it believes will have "serious implications" for the North Weald, Thornwood and Hastingwood areas.

Officers and councillors will be on hand to discuss the Green Belt review currently being undertaken by Epping Forest District Council as well as Essex County Council's proposal to site an aggregate waste recycling centre next to the McDonald's restaurant at Hastingwood and the parish council's Neighbourhood Plan Area Designation.

Parish council chairman Cyril Hawkins said: "All these are major local issues which could have serious implications for the future of the whole of the North Weald Bassett parish.

"It is vital local people have as much information as possible and are able to find out about these issues, giving them an opportunity to get involved."

The council is taking legal action against Epping Forest Council because it did not designate the entire parish of North Weald Bassett as a Neighbourhood Plan area.

A letter from planning consultants acting for developers, which was circulated at a meeting of the parish council in April, revealed that land at Latton Priory near the M11/A414 roundabout could be developed for housing, a business park, community facilities, open spaces and recreational areas, along with significant investment in highways and junction improvements.

The council argues that omitting areas at Hastingwood from the Neighbourhood Plan would exclude residents from having a say over the future of where they live, as the law intended.

It is also fighting proposals for the waste recycling centre and considering its views over the Green Belt review.

The parish council is holding public consultation sessions at Hastingwood Village Hall next Saturday (July 11) from 10.30am-12.30pm, at the North Weald Airfield community day on Sunday, July 12 from 10.30am-3.30pm, at North Weald Library on Monday, July 13 from 4.30-6.30pm and at Thornwood Parish Hall on Wednesday, July 15 from 4.30pm-6.30pm.

ALL EARS: Youngsters from 21st Harlow Beavers visit Tesco at Church Langley to find out about food

Tesco trip gives Beavers food for thought

YOUNGSTERS have been beavering away at Tesco's Church Langley store to find out where their food comes from.

Members of Harlow's 21st Beavers took part in the store's Farm to Fork trail during which they were taught about the origins of different foods and the value of nutrition.

Tesco joined forces with several national charities to create the trail after a survey showed that 90 per cent of 7-14 year olds do not eat their five-a-day.

Farm to Fork Trail leader, Diane Harper said: "It was a pleasure having the children here today. The aim of these trails is to inspire children to learn more about the food on their plate and you could see they were really excited and enthusiastic."

Quiz night cash helps girl with rare condition

Parents need to raise £25k for building work

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A COMMUNITY pulled together to raise £1,250 for a five-year-old girl who suffers with a rare life-limiting condition.

Friends and family members helped Phoebe Palmer, who has been diagnosed with Pontocerebellar Hypoplasia, by raising the money at a quiz night.

The fundraiser held at Colt Hatch Social Club included a quiz, auction, raffle and game of head bingo which helped Phoebe's grateful parents, Scott and Lizzie, a few steps closer to towards their £25,000 target.

As Phoebe's condition means she will never walk or talk, she will need intensive support throughout her life. The money needed to adapt her bedroom and the family's bathroom to meet her needs.

Mrs Palmer said: "Although just over half the cost of this work will be met by council grants, we have to raise around £25,000 ourselves.

"This is a big worry for a family on a tight budget, as we haven't found any charities that help specifically with building costs.

"We started our campaign in

CARE: Phoebe Palmer

March and have been overwhelmed by the generosity of people who supported the quiz night, and also all those donating on Phoebe's website."

Despite her condition, Phoebe still attends Hare Street Primary School and takes special one-on-one classes.

However, if the money is not raised the family could risk losing her to a specialist care centre.

"It is getting increasingly hard to carry her upstairs as she is getting quite heavy now," added Mrs Palmer who has two other daughters, Bethany, nine, and Poppy, one.

"We desperately need a ground floor extension and a hoist to help her move, as well as a wet room for her."

After the success of the quiz night, a 1970s and '80s disco night will be held in the autumn.

To contribute towards the family's target, visit gofundme.com/phoebelife.

Black tie ball will raise money for GOSH

THERE'S an open invitation to a Harlow charity ball next month, but you've got to dress up.

Hosted by Phoebe's Hair Salon manager Keenan McNally, the black tie event will offer a buffet dinner, dancing and a charity auction in aid of Great Ormond Street Hospital.

Mr McNally, who lives in Rundells, is hoping to raise money for the hospital where his five-year-old nephew is receiving care.

Tickets for the ball at Blake's Golf Country Club on Saturday, August 1 cost £15. More information can be found on the salon's Facebook page.

A sticky time to be a honey bee

DO you like the deliciously sweet taste of honey?

The sticky golden treat is produced by honey bees, but experts are warning these important creatures are in danger of dying out.

Poor weather, a lack of the right type of food and disease are all threatening their survival.

Bees are an important link in ensuring plants are pollinated and produce fruit which we eat.

But a recent survey by the British Beekeepers Association shows that the bee population in the eastern region of the country has fallen by 15 per cent.

As a result, the BBKA is about to launch a new campaign to raise awareness of the plight of the honey bee and encourage people to help it recover.

A study of 2,000 adults and children found almost four in ten were not aware that honey bees were in decline. A large number also did not know the vital role honey bees play in the health of the environment.

David Aston, president of The British Beekeepers Association, said: "While many people are aware of the plight of the honey bee, there are many that don't know what they can do to help.

"We hope that by supporting our Friends of the Honey Bee initiative families across the country can get involved, making a practical contribution and supporting bee health research."

A bee-friendly guide has been produced featuring everyone's favourite honey-loving bear Winnie the Pooh. It includes suggestions for simple and fun activities for families to do over the summer to help our honey bees.

bee facts

■ Honey bees live in colonies or hives. All the bees in the colony work together for the good of the hive and each one has a job to do. The queen lays the eggs and the workers build the honeycomb, care for the larvae and collect the food.

■ Bees are pollinators and are vital to our food chain. One third of the food we eat would not be available without the contribution of bees.

■ Bees fly from flower to flower, sipping nectar and collecting grains of pollen. When they return to their hive it is turned into honey to use as food.

■ A single bee can collect enough nectar to make one twelfth of a teaspoon of honey in its lifetime.

■ It would take 1,100 bees to make 1kg of honey and they would have to visit four million flowers.

Rock veteran John Otway once dubbed himself rock 'n' roll's greatest failure after many unsuccessful attempts to produce a second hit single to follow his 1977 classic (Cor Baby, That's) Really Free with Wild Willy Barrett. However, a mere quarter century later he was back on Top of The Pops with the disco pastiche Bunsen Burner and back in the charts as a birthday present from his adoring and patient fans. More recently, his Beware Of The Flowers Cause I'm Sure They're Going To Get You Yeah was voted the seventh greatest lyric of all time in a BBC poll. Expect madcap mayhem and some scintillating stunts from a man old enough to know better.....and also to be surprised at just what a showman and musician really lies beneath the tomfoolery. Harlow Theatre Company presents Rent, a musical telling the story of a group of impoverished artists living in New York's East Village and the bohemian Alphabet City during the mid 1990s and their struggles living under the shadow of HIV/AIDS. Loosely based on La Bohème, the show started life as a workshop production with a limited three-week run off Broadway. On the evening before it's premiere, the show's writer Jonathan Larson died suddenly but the show went on the following day to critical acclaim and soon moved to Broadway for a very successful run. HTC's production – the company's first musical for 18 years, is directed by Jody Randal and choreographed by Paul Tarling, with musical direction from Chris Redman.

Can you offer brass band a home for rehearsals?

MEMBERS of a brass band are desperately looking for a new home with the group needing more space for rehearsals and to launch a youth section.

Harlow Brass Band have 27 regular members and rehearse once a week at a school, but need a new location to safeguard the group's future.

Now the band are looking for a space to call their own, and are exploring commercial businesses and halls, but have yet to find anywhere suitable.

Chris Johnson, musical director, said: "Rehearsing in a school is not the best situation and ideally we would love our own band room, as we need to build a junior section to secure our future.

"There has been a brass band in Harlow since the latter part of the 19th century, so we are all very proud to be part of such tradition.

"Our music repertoire consists of traditional Brass Band music, as well as contemporary pieces and even our take on pop music."

Anyone who may be able to help should contact Chris brassbandradio@gmail.com.

In the air tonight . . .

If you like the music of both big bands and Phil Collins, then there is a concert at The Playhouse in Harlow which is tailor made for you.

The And Finally Big Band is an offshoot of the critically acclaimed And Finally... Phil Collins.

Show producer and drummer Tim Harper has always wanted to create a traditional jazz swing orchestra in the style of Phil's own big band and this is it.

The original Phil Collins Big Band was a side project, which performed in 1996 and 1998. The group presented big band renditions of Phil Collins and Genesis songs.

The group was primarily an instrumental act, with Collins remaining behind the drums, like the early days of Genesis and rarely singing at performances.

The And Finally Big Band recreates a combination of both of Phil's live Big Band shows using the original musical arrangements and performed by 20 world class musicians.

Such great classics as Sussudio, Two Hearts, In the Air Tonight, Invisible Touch and many more of Phil's compositions are given the huge Big Band treatment.

"It's been 12 months in the planning and we wanted to get it right – it's a big thing. It's been a lot of hard work with people all over the UK. We've been rehearsing and it's been going well," explained Tim. "There will be 22 of us on stage, so audiences get to see something very different."

For this show Chris Lloyd, of Talon fame, joins the band for a cameo performance singing some classic swing standards of the Big Band era. Collins' original shows – which led to the album A Hot Night in Paris – had a guest vocalist appearance by Tony Bennett.

Tim explained that putting together a big band wasn't easy for the Genesis drummer, who did not read drum music. The album which did not contain any singing reached number three in the jazz charts.

"This is a unique show combining the rare Phil Collins performances with an unforgettable big band experience performed by the very best of UK musicians. It's a full two-hour extravaganza and a show not to be missed," added Tim.

The show will be held in the main auditorium at The Playhouse on Saturday, July 25. The show starts at 7.30pm and tickets cost £21. For more visit www.playhouseharlow.com or call the box office on (01279) 431945.

Players close season with a British classic

MAKE way for Pygmalion, the classic play coming to a Harlow theatre for four nights next month.

The bittersweet British comedy will bring down the curtain of a successful 2014/15 season at Harlow's Moot House and performances will take place

Thursday July 9 to Saturday, July 11.

Bernard Shaw's timeless tale sees phonetics professor Henry Higgins make a bet that he can train Cockney flower girl Eliza Doolittle to pass for a duchess by treating her received pronunciation and higher class etiquette.

Pygmalion lampoons the British class system and the social comment is arguably just as valid now as when Shaw penned the play in 1913.

Directed by Henrietta

Branwell and starring Geoff Leeds and Kerry Rowland as the two leads, organisers from Moot Hall have described the show as "a classic that is not to be missed".

Tickets cost £8 for adults and £6 for concessions. All three performances start at 8pm.

Dragonforce pop in before Japan tour

WITH a capacity of 250, The Square in Harlow is perhaps not the most obvious venue for metal rockers DragonForce to warm up for their Japanese arena tour.

However, guitarist Herman Li tells GO! that the six-piece couldn't see the pride of Fourth Avenue close without paying tribute to the venue that helped make them great nearly 15 years ago.

After releasing six albums, winning numerous rock accolades and touring all over the world it's easy to forget that DragonForce were once a new band struggling to get noticed, playing tiny gigs to five people.

But back in 2001 they were exactly that.

"Things were difficult for us back then and I was sending demo tapes everywhere in the hope of getting noticed," says a reflective Herman.

"We had no record deal and were just hoping a venue would let us play. But when we contacted The Square they not only let us on stage, they allowed us to headline one night."

The Hong-Kong born guitar hero said he remembers the gig well, and even has a video recording that the band occasionally reminisce over.

"We only had 50 people but it was a start, and it gave us the experience to go on and do bigger and better things.

"You can't just expect a band to be perfect straight away, and you need this kind of show to learn your craft, gain experience and see how these things work.

"That's why local venues are so important and it's so sad to see so many closing down across the country. We had to come back to The Square as a way of saying thank you, before we go off to Japan."

A lot has changed since then, and DragonForce have been through numerous line-up changes, with 38-year-old Herman now settling into the role of "elder statesman" as one of three original members having jointly founded the band in 1999.

The band's latest album Maximum Overload was the last with long time drummer Dave Mackintosh at the sticks, with the Italian Gee Anzalone taking over the stall.

"(Gee) is Italian so that has been really interesting, and even though his English isn't perfect he comes out with some really funny things. He's also a good cook which helps," Herman laughs.

"We've always been based in London which is a very international city and the blend of cultures within the band is natural, I'm just focusing on my job."

Maximum Overload was a major critical and commercial success when it was released in August last year, with their sixth album receiving rave reviews and good sales all over the world.

Herman says of the album: "I think it is a mix of what we do best with hard metal sounds and melodic moments.

"(The content) deals a lot with the pressures of every day battles and how it can all be too much. There's a song on the album called Three Hammers and another called The Game, which describe fantasy epic battles, but I think these can relate to everyone's struggles.

"A lot of the songs are shorter than previous stuff, which can sprawl over 10 minutes, so it has made our set list a lot more varied and interesting."

Three of the tracks, including album opener

The Game, feature the vocals of Trivium front man Matt Heafy, which Herman said made an interesting collaboration.

"It was really cool working with Matt, and we have been friends for a while, but it was the first time we have ever featured anyone else on the album," he said.

Bizarrely another hand, or rather paw, on production was Herman's dog who played an unknowing role in the progression of power anthem Three Hammers.

Herman was unsure which version of a guitar riff would be right for the song and decided to play them for his dog, leaving the choice at the discretion of the mutt's face.

"I was playing a guitar part with some high pitch sounds and I kind of looked at my dog for a reaction. I played three versions and one he twisted his face, which I took to mean it was his favourite and that was the one I chose.

"It was kind of random, but I often like to hear my animal's opinion of music," he laughed.

Harlow will also offer a chance for the band to get back into sync with playing some older music, with the six keen to play a variety of songs in the Asian venues they don't get to tour very often.

"The fans (in Harlow) can expect a bit of everything, and I hope they enjoy the show," says Herman, who is determined to put on one last performance to remember.

While The Square will be closing at the end of the year, the venue will not be going quietly.

Tickets are on sale now from £14 in advance from www.thesquareharlow.com.

X Factor band Stereo Kicks has been announced as the final headliners at a charity music festival.

The eight-piece boy band, which was formed from solo contestants who auditioned for last year's ITV contest, will play at Cazfest on July 11.

The group is the final act to be announced in a line-up which features girl band Stooshe, Bom Bom singers Sam & The Womp, MOBO-nominated act Ironik and up-and-coming hip hop artist Kieran Alleyne.

The boy band, which were previously listed on line-up posters as a special guest to be announced, will join Stortford acts and other UK bands at the festival, which will have two stages, a dance tent, food and other stalls.

The announcement comes as Stereo Kicks celebrate their debut single, Love Me So, going to number one in the official UK singles chart for physical sales on Sunday, June 28.

Cazfest committee member Alan Mariutto said: "The Cazfest committee are excited and overjoyed to announce Stereo Kicks will strengthen an already impressive line-up for this year's festival. We try every year to get the best possible acts to cater for all tastes within our means.

"The money we raise will be used to carry out heart screening. If we can stop one family going through sudden death from heart failure, then all our work will be worthwhile. So please come and support us and have a great day."

Band members Barclay, Chris, Casey,

Jake, James, Tom, Charlie and Reece auditioned as solo artists in The X Factor in 2014 and were formed into a band at the show's boot camp. Fans chose their name after watching them perform at the judges' house. The group, in which Charlie is the youngest at 14 and Tom, 21, is the oldest, left the competition in the quarter finals in week eight.

Stereo Kicks will perform in Swarder's Field in Bishop's Stortford for the festival that is run to raise awareness of heart risk in young people.

Cazfest was set up in 2009 after the sudden death of The Bishop's Stortford High School pupil Caroline 'Caz' Johnstone, 17, in Harlow from a previously undiagnosed heart condition in 2008. Since it was established, money raised has contributed to visits to sixth forms in Bishop's Stortford and beyond by medical staff to check the hearts of young students.

Tickets for Cazfest cost £20 in advance from www.cazfest.com or can be bought for £25, subject to availability, on the gate.

John goes west for debut

John Maclean first made his name with indie rockers The Beta Band but has now reinvented himself as film director. He tells Jay Glennie about making his first movie Slow West and working with Michael Fassbender

How did you get your start in the film industry. Originally we know you from the Beta Band but how did you get your start working in film?

I made a short film on my mobile called Man On A Motorcycle and that kind of kicked the whole thing off. I had spoken to many people within the film industry in the hope of directing a film but hadn't got anywhere. So I funded the film myself and set about making it. This was pre-iPhone, but I just wanted to make a film, so used the tools available to me.

I got the lucky break when Michael Fassbender came on board. He's a friend of my agent and had liked the Beta Band. We met and got on and I wasn't going to miss the opportunity. Michael likes motorcycling, so it paid off to have something he likes doing.

Film4 saw Man On A Motorcycle and they then funded Pitch Black Heist and that went on to win a BAFTA. It was fun to make and Michael enjoyed it and it proved to be a good collaboration and he suggested that we make a feature film next. I mean it was great. It certainly ruled out any funding worries and it meant that I could take my time and really concentrate on the making sure the script was right.

How long did the script take to complete?

It took about two years to complete the script for Slow West. That wasn't working non-stop, but it was over a two-year period. I think up ideas, day dream a little and begin to visualise the film, write it up and start work on the storyboards, which helps me capture what I have in my mind.

With Michael attached, it ruled out any worries about funding; within reason, I could take my time and really get the script where I wanted it to be. I'd also like to say that I worked with a great British script editor called Kate Leys. So although Michael had suggested we work on a feature together, the script still had to be right. It had to be as good or if not better than the hundreds of scripts he is offered on a daily basis. The thing is also with Michael, he always comes up with great ideas as you develop a script.

I pored over each line. I wanted each line to count. That's why the script took so long. I am a big believer that if dialogue is going to be in a film, it has to be succinct and have meaning.

Once we had the script in place it was then a case of finding a time within in Michael's schedule. We had two opportunities, we could either pull it together in six months or be ready to start shooting and wait for two years. I took the six-month option!

Why a Western, why that genre?

Well, there appeared to be many British debut films that centred on growing up in a rough town, so I thought for my feature debut I would do something different. When I told Michael I had plans to write a Western, he immediately brought into the idea. It was luckily a genre he had long wanted to be a part of. He has that whole quality about him, so I could see it working. Come the start of filming he was itching to get on the horse!

I actually thought that a Western would be kind of cheap to produce. I had this vision that it would be set in a forest or wilderness and not in towns and I'd just dress up a couple of guy in cowboy outfits and I wouldn't have to worry about extras and creating whole cities and sets from the period. So that was on my mind.

Also, coming from Scotland and growing up, my dad was always interested in the Highlands, the famine and all of the people who left. You also have the famous Westerns with John Wayne and all of those guys, but I thought that there was an opportunity to have a Western that links other cultures and migration.

In the Beta Band and before that, I travelled a lot to the US and I would often bump into people who said their grandfather's has come from Scotland or Ireland. So the seeds were sown.

Which films influenced the writing and making of Slow West?

I read loads during the writing period and also immersed myself in films, soaking up as much as I could. It was basically a history of cinema. Films like Red River, Iron Horse, Rio Bravo, My Darling Clementine and a strange one called Blood On The Moon, with Robert Mitchum, which is really good and well worth checking out. There were also lots of early Japanese films, which the original American westerns were influenced by, films like The Seven Samurai. I love cinema and I knew all of the big films well. Directors like Scorsese, of course, but I didn't feel comfortable because I hadn't really done the Bergmans and the Bressons, that sort of stuff.

As I say I love film and there are loads of little references scattered through Slow West from my favourite films.

You had a great script but just as important was a stunning cast...

I know it's a dream, right?! Michael is a stunning actor. Always prepared and commits to the role. He was the same for the two shorts and he was on my first feature.

So I had Michael Fassbender and everybody is ready to work when he is on set. I knew that would be the case because when I sent out the script and his name was attached, other actors want to work with Michael. They know it's a serious project.

More deranged delight for children

Minions

ANIMATION COMEDY (U) 91 minutes

Directors: Pierre Coffin, Kyle Balda
Voices: Sandra Bullock, Jon Hamm, Michael Keaton, Allison Janney, Jennifer Saunders

YOU can have too much of a good thing. In small doses, Despicable Me's goggle-eyed hench-creatures are a deranged delight.

As unwitting heroes of their own big-screen adventure, these pint-sized "knights in shining denim" lose some of their loopy lustre, hindered by Brian Lynch's flimsy script, which is disappointingly light on storyline and belly laughs. A dazzling vocal cast of gifted comic actors is repeatedly short-changed.

Very young children, who gurgle with glee at the Minions' bonkers vernacular combining Esperanto and goobledygook, will adore the slapstick, pratfalls and the tiniest member of the Minions clan, Bob, who clutches a well-loved teddy bear called Tim.

Adults will be considerably harder to win over.

The lack of a coherent storyline grates as much as the lazy cultural stereotyping of the British as tea-sipping, corgi-riding folk, who frequent pubs called The Pig's Spleen.

Since the dawn of time, Minions have gravitated towards despicable masters including Tyrannosaurus Rex, Count Dracula and Napoleon.

Unfortunately, these masters die prematurely – at the hands of the clumsy, yellow hench-creatures – leaving the Minions in a state of deep depression.

One brave soul named Kevin steps forth to find an evil boss for his bald, jaundiced brethren.

Flanked by Stuart and scaredy-cat Bob, Kevin leaves the Minions' ice cave retreat bound for 1968 New York City.

Cue a President Richard Nixon billboard proclaiming "Finally: a name you can trust".

Could the Minions have stumbled upon their arch-villain?

No. The plucky trio learns about a gathering of criminals in Orlando and hitches a ride to the convention with a bank-robbing family led by Walter Nelson (voiced by Michael Keaton) and wife Madge (Allison Janney).

Their daughter Tina (Katy Mixon) points the Minions in the direction of bouffant super-villain Scarlet Overkill (Sandra Bullock).

"If I was a minion, that's who I'd want to work for," she swoons.

Thus the trio pledges allegiance to Scarlet and her inventor husband Herb (Jon Hamm), who are plotting to steal the crown jewels from Queen Elizabeth II (Jennifer Saunders).

While the soundtrack swings its flares to The Kinks and The Who, Kevin, Stuart and Bob career around London armed with Herb's nifty gadgets: a robo-suit, lava lamp gun and hypno-hat.

Minions has a sprinkling of giggles and doesn't outstay its welcome, but there's an unshakeable feeling that Pierre Coffin and Kyle Balda's film falls short.

The groovy time period should be a velvet goldmine of visual gags, but the best the film can muster is a nod to The Beatles and a faked moon landing.

The 3D version doesn't exploit the eye-popping format, so parents with tykes in tow should save their money for the inevitable raid on the concessions stand.

Animation is colourful and pristine, opting for shiny surfaces and sharp angles that reduce the need for meticulous detail and realism.

TAURUS APRIL 21 - MAY 21

An excess of energy can see you getting up to all sorts of mischief this week and it will be up to you to know where you should draw the line. Remember what you need to do to achieve, not what others tried to talk you into along the way. You're a clever sign, so please don't underestimate your ability. Good news comes from far away by Friday. Ring now for a long term view on relationships.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 349 65p per minute

GEMINI MAY 22 - JUNE 21

You think your close ones don't understand you, but you're wrong. You see my friend, over the last few days your loved ones have probably learned more about you than they have in the last five years. You're finally letting down your defences and you're about to find out that you can and should work as a team to shape your life the way you want it to be. Ring now for inspiration.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 350 65p per minute

COVER PROPERTY > Matching Road, Hatfield Heath

Living the country life dream in manor home

DOWN Court is the very vision of luxury living - a Lotto winner's dream. The Hatfield Heath property has been beautifully maintained and much improved by the present owners, with an extensive schedule of works, including handmade windows and kitchen.

The property boasts a large drawing room, dining room, family room, magnificent kitchen, study, domestic study, six bedrooms, four bathrooms, two cloakrooms and excellent outbuildings.

It has a newly-constructed double garage, hard tennis court, landscaped formal gardens extending to in excess of two acres, a gated, sweeping drive and excellent parking.

The property is approached from the Matching road along a long, private drive through some mature woodland which is shared with three other beautiful country houses.

The drive sweeps around to double opening electric gates into the property's main private drive leading to the large cobble-laid parking area.

There is a panelled double opening entrance door to the 26ft entrance hall and doors to various rooms.

The drawing room is 24ft by 20ft, with sash windows on two aspects, double doors to stone-laid terrace, a stone fireplace with a large stone hearth and insert log-burning Esse stove and relieved cornice.

The dining room has a pair of sash windows to front and double doors to a raised kitchen gallery with a stone staircase leading to the kitchen area.

This bespoke Mark Wilkinson kitchen comprises a large Belfast sink with mixer tap and cupboards under, further range of matching base units and drawers, two oven oil-heated Aga with adjacent duo Miele hob and cupboards under, matching base units with bevelled edge granite tops and complementary upstands.

There is a Miele oven with Miele microwave, plumbed Samsung fridge with water and ice, integrated dishwasher, central island with preparation sink with cupboards and drawers under, Miele coffee machine, vaulted ceiling with heavy oak structural work and roof lights.

Double doors give access to a small garden area, windows on two aspects, large walk-in larder cupboard with shelving and a door through to the large utility room.

The family room has feature arch-topped sash windows and double opening doors to a paved terrace. There is an entertainment recess for a large screen TV and oak flooring.

A ground floor bedroom is currently used as a study with a large stock brick Inglenook fireplace, brick mantle and log burning stove, through to en-suite bathroom with panel enclosed bath, double tray shower, pedestal wash hand basin, low level flush WC.

There are two further studies on the ground floor and a guest suite with en-suite.

On the first floor, the galleried landing has three sash windows to front and walk-in wardrobe cupboard with hanging space and shelving.

The master bedroom is approached via a dressing area with quality fitted cupboards, and the room itself has sash windows on three aspects with views to both front and rear garden areas and a Victorian-style fireplace, together with a contemporary en-suite shower room with Jack and Jill wash basins, a walk-in shower with fixed head.

Bedrooms two, three and four are all generous doubles, while the family bath/shower room has a jacuzzi bath, shower cubicle with a fixed head shower and removable spring, pair of sash windows to front, half tiled walls with a glass mosaic rail, enamelled heated towel rail and window seating and a pair of sash windows to rear.

Outside, the property is in grounds of approximately three acres. Directly to the rear and side of the main house is a formal garden with covered outside entertaining area. There are steps and a pathway down to the main garden area which is laid to lawn and well screened by mature hedging.

There is a bark-laid children's play area and a chain link fence enclosed hard tennis court with another extensive paved patio area with box hedging.

Additionally, the stable block has three loose boxes and central store, all with light and power.

"Open House"

The keys to selling any property are price, location and exposure. You can't change the location of your property, and the market determines the price. However, your agent can make significant inroads into how powerfully your property is exposed to the market.

One of the most effective methods is the "open house". This is where the property is advertised as being open for anyone who wishes to view it at a certain time, usually during a weekend. Very common abroad, the open house is rapidly gaining popularity in the UK, and for good reason.

Firstly, one of the best sources of qualified buyers is via the neighbours. Everybody knows someone who is selling and people tend to buy in an area which is close to their existing network of friends and acquaintances. This is known as socio-demographic mirroring.

When a property goes on show, it is marketed intensely in the neighbourhood so that every neighbour is aware that the property is for sale. If they know anyone who is buying, they are highly likely to invite them round to see the property, or at least look at it on their behalf.

From the seller's perspective, having an open house can concentrate the viewings around a fixed time. Go for a walk and leave it all to the agent if you want to reduce some of the stress of selling!

Open house days tend to be very relaxed, and they create an environment where buyers do not feel in any way under pressure, but can take their time to consider a property's merits. Because of this, we find that more people register their interest during an open house than they would through the usual advertising channels.

Maybe we can help you with the sale of your home with this already successful method we have used for our vendors?

James

Scrap Cars

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle. That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD). A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

MISSING GREY TABBY CAT  Our beautiful cat went missing last Friday 19th June from Stanstead Road in Hoddesdon. We have been told by more than one person that she was seen in a garden on the corner of Stanstead drive on Friday morning and had sadly died. The council were called but when they arrived shortly afterwards she had disappeared. We now have no idea what has happened to our little cat and are devastated. If you have any information or have seen her since please get in contact with us, we are desperate for any information. Please check in your garden, under bushes or in your sheds. We would be so grateful to find out where she is. Her name is Polly, she is two years old and very timid. She is a light grey tabby cat with pale grey/green eyes and has black ring markings down her tail with a black tip. # The Ors has bolted as Baxter wreaks havoc

Skipper hails 'unstoppable' bowler as Harlow climb

Shepherd Neame Essex Cricket League Division One
Orsett ..... 150
Harlow ..... 151-5
Harlow won by five wickets

REHMAN AHMED hailed ever-green bowler Nicky Baxter as "unstoppable" after he destroyed Orsett on Saturday.

The comprehensive five-wicket victory moved Harlow up to fifth in the Division One table.

Baxter took four early wickets, wiping out the hosts' top order and finished with fantastic figures of 4-42.

Spin king Ross Vasani then got in on the act, ending the resistance of Alex Karkosi (65) and tailender Shahid Khan (17) as Orsett were humbled for 150 on a decent batting track.

Vasani finished with 4-37, while Luke Heskett chipped in with 2-32.

The Marigolds men then knocked off the runs in double quick time, using up 33.5 overs and finishing on 151-5.

Devastated

Main contributions came from openers Hafiz Yawar (35), teenager Alan Jones (45) and Ahmed Khawaja (43) but the result was really never in doubt.

Skipper Rehman said: "They could not get Nicky. He has a special yorker. He devastated their top order."

"They did not have an answer for him, and then Ross put the pressure on. When Nicky is firing, he is unstoppable."

"A score that low on a track that good, there was never any danger for us."

Rehman now wants his team to put a run of wins together, starting with Saturday's home match against second-from-bottom Hadleigh & Thundersley.

"We will look to beat them as well," he added.

The first team victory was one of four wins for Harlow teams on Saturday.

The Harlow seconds were indebted to a fantastic first-wicket partnership of 177 from Dan Stopp and Luke Monger.

Both scored 82 and were finally dismissed in the same over as the team posted a formidable 292-5.

Opponents Leigh-on-Sea were skittled for just 124 with Amir Farooq (5-16) once again proving a demon with ball in hand.

The third team remain unbeaten for the season after holding on for a battling draw against Buckhurst Hill thirds.

Hill declared on 232-9.

Muhammed Naeem and Jack Davies were the pick of the bowlers for Harlow, taking three wickets apiece.

In reply, Davies capped a great all-round performance with 53 as the visitors finished on 170-8.

Harlow's fourth team maintained their unbeaten start to the season after a clear-cut victory against Buckhurst Hill fourths.

Liam Coldwell (72) and Ihan Mustafa (92) forged a brilliant partnership for the third wicket as Harlow put on 262-8 declared.

Hill were demolished for 138.

The wickets were shared around.

The fifths also grabbed an excellent win.

Max Baulcomb scored an excellent 52 but the partnership of Hoskins (68no) and Daniel Whelams (33no) was crucial.

They put on 105 in quick time for the eighth wicket as Harlow posted 256-6.

In response, Sawbridgeworth IV lost five wickets in a devastating four-over spell, as they were routed for 116.

Mitchinson leads way for England

HARLOW bowls player Steve Mitchinson helped England to a fantastic victory in the British Isles Series.

Mitchinson, a member at Harlow's Tye Green Indoor Bowls Club, took on Scotland, Ireland and Wales in Hamilton in Scotland last weekend.

The player, who now lives in Sheering, was leading with John McGuinness (Buckinghamshire), David Hubbard (Sussex) and Rob Newman (Berkshire) against Scotland.

England beat Scotland 113-107, with Mitchinson's rink winning 19-16.

"Our rink beat a rink skipped by Colin Walker by three which helped the England team to a nine-shot overall win," he said.

England then defeated Ireland 127-101, with Mitchinson's rink winning 20-16.

"Against Ireland again our rink won, this time by four as England cruised to a comfortable win," Mitchinson explained.

"This left us needing to beat Wales to be crowned champions."

"Again our rink won their rink, this time by seven shots."

England beat the Welsh 133-99 to secure the title.

Mitchinson's rink won their match 24-17.

It was the second time Mitchinson had helped England to victory in the British Isles Series.

"We were one of two England rinks to win all three of their matches," he added.

Meanwhile, Mitchinson also qualified for the semi-final of the Essex County Singles on Monday, beating Jason Burgess (Wivenhoe) 21-7.

A Tye Green IBC team compete in the quarter-finals of the Essex County Fours on Friday. The team is Gordon Howell, Terry Bird, Derek Stubbings and Jimmy Oakes.

They will play a four from Clacton for a place in the semi-finals.

So proud of World Cup star Casey

■ From back page

She has been a key part of the Lionesses who have been transformed since the dark days of their early European Championships exit in 2013.

This was when members of the squad fell out with then manager Hope Powell.

But Stoney, a former England captain, who became the first football skipper of a united Great Britain team at the 2012 Olympics, has used all her football knowledge and experience to help unify the England team under Sampson.

Stoney and her team-mates have surely transformed the game in this country and Harlow-based teams could launch new girls' teams on the back of this success as football's popularity surges for young girls and women alike.

Having made history by reaching the semi-finals of a World Cup, the team were looking to defeat defending world champions Japan.

The winner takes on USA in the final at the weekend. They beat Germany in the other semi yesterday (Wednesday).

Coleman's mustard to validate Town first team return

Shepherd Neame Essex Cricket League Division Two
Harlow Tn ..... 313-8
Stanford-le-Hope ..... 194
Harlow won by 119 runs

CHARLIE COLEMAN validated his first team return as Harlow Town crushed fellow promoted side Stanford-le-Hope at Ash Tree Field on Saturday.

Having posted a mammoth 313-8, Town destroyed their opponents for just 194.

Captain Neil Gladwin said: "[Ramya] Upadhyay's innings was full of class and was thoroughly well deserved."

"However, it was Coleman's innings that was the game changer. He is such a fine striker of the ball and he is slowly learning which balls he can hit and which he needs to defend."

"The more he matures as a batsman, the more match winning performances he will put in for us."

Joe Holland struck six boundaries in his 28 off 23 balls, showing glimpses of his brilliance.

But it was the newly-promoted Coleman who illustrated his growing maturity.

Coleman fell after hitting 57 from 50 balls, while Upadhyay's superb century – his first in the league this season – saw him accumulate 102 from 129 balls.

Skipper Gladwin chipped in with 42 off 31 balls.

Stanford collapsed from 147-4 to 160-7 but the end was nigh and they were dismissed for 194.

Shaun Alderson (3-33) took the most wickets.

Harlow face title challengers Fives & Heronians twice next weekend, in the league and then at home in the quarter-final of the Essex Cup.

"If we can maintain the standard of play and the togetherness we showed on Saturday, then I have every faith in the guys," added Gladwin.

Harlow Town's second team lost by 27 runs against Stanford-le-Hope (285-7).

Jason Gladwin (65) and Daniel Baldwin (56) made a good fist of it, but Town ran out of batsmen (257).

The thirds made 95 as they were brushed aside by Hadleigh & Thundersley thirds (99-3), losing by seven wickets.

Jack Elston (5-36), Dan Gleeson (2-23) and Nick Teale (2-18) shone as Town's fourths restricted Hornchurch to 108.

In reply, Town secured the win in 24 overs with openers Lee Richardson and James Hardcastle both hitting 50s, the side triumphing by ten wickets (109-0).

Tennis players do battle in all conditions

THERE has been plenty of action for Harlow Tennis Club in recent weeks in all kinds of weather.

The club's mixed doubles first team won matches against Much Hadham and Bishop's Stortford.

Harlow's team of Sheila Dalmasio and Robert Budzynski as well as the father and daughter pair of Amie Stingemore, 13, and Richard Stingemore overcame Hadham 10-6 in sunny conditions.

Against Bishop's Stortford, in steady light rain, Harlow came through 9-7.

It was a tight match with Dalmasio and Budzynski losing their first rubber 2-0 and their second by one. The Stingemores won both their rubbers 2-0.

In the Mixed Small Clubs League, Harlow's Mixed Two team took on Newport indoors due to the threat of drizzle and a difficult playing surface outside.

They were soundly beaten by a strong Newport team who ran out comfortable winners 15-1.

In the Men's Small Clubs League Two, a much-changed Harlow seconds visited Roydon for a local derby with James Knudsen, Tai Pearson and Tod Penchev making their debuts for the Harlow team with captain Steve Dodd.

It was a miserable afternoon for tennis with intermittent drizzle, but Harlow ran out comfortable winners against a strong Roydon team 10-6.

Mixed fortunes for anglers

STORT Valley Angling Society members have enjoyed mixed fortunes on their monthly outings so far this season.

March in Cambridgeshire was the Harlow club's opening venue of 2015 with a very close result between Danny Cruse in first place with 4lbs 11ozs closely followed by Dougie Read on 4lbs 9ozs.

Mick Westby was 4ozs adrift in third place.

A new venue for the club saw the members travel to the Blind Lane fishery in West Hanningfield.

Danny Cruse again filled top spot with a fine haul of carp for 71lbs 10ozs, which was well ahead of second-placed Mick Westby who banked 37lbs 4ozs. Kevin Shaw was third.

The Grand Union Canal at Berkhamsted was the next challenge, with club treasurer Malcolm Gregg netting a fine bag of bream weighing 20lbs 8ozs to lift the trophy.

Some good chub helped Bob Groom take second place banking 15lbs 3ozs just ahead of Colin Cotterell, who claimed third place.

More recently, in terrible weather, the Netteswell Cup was won by Malcolm Gregg with 5lbs 9ozs of skimmer bream.

TEN PIN BOWLING: The Breakaway Trios League at Chelmsford was dominated by teams from Harlow with the top three places being decided on the final week of the season and more than £2000 in prize money at stake.

The Terrapins (Steve Morton, Dave Bird, Robin Hall and Bryan Morton) won, with Two Men and a Lady (Kay Morgan, Harry Bracher and John Ward) second. The high game was bowled by Harlow's Stewart Thompson (243) and the high series of 606 by Nich Taylor. In the Paramount Doubles League opener, Dave Hunter hit seven strikes in a row for 246 and two 200-plus games helped him record a 569 three-game series. The league's youngest player Marc Wainwright also scored over 200, twice on the same night.

In the Youth Tenpin Bowling Club, seven-year-old Kieran Webb had games of 50, 59 and 82.

Festival joy for Parsloe

PARSLOE U14s topped off a great first season together as a football team with a festival triumph.

The team, based at The Link, had a very successful season, getting promoted from Mid Herts Rural Minors League Division Two, losing only three games all season and finishing second.

They have kept up their fine form during the Maldon football festival, a five-a-side event with 19 other teams from Essex and Herts.

In the group stages Parsloe won four out of five games, only losing to Bishop's Stortford Academy's A team, and they scored 21 goals on the way and only conceded five to qualify as runners-up.

In the quarter-final they overcame Stortford's B team 8-7 in a penalty shoot-out with even the goalkeepers taking penalties.

Parsloe then beat Focus Errors 2-1 in the semis to meet Stortford's A team again. They avenged their earlier defeat with a 1-0 win to seal the title.

Harlow sprinters simply flying this season

by Alasdair Gold

alasdair.gold@hertsessexnews.co.uk

HARLOW Athletic Club's sprint team have been doing themselves proud with a string of outstanding personal bests, two county champions crowned and inter-county and English Schools selections.

In Watford at the recent Hertfordshire County Championships, Mo Tamedou ran in his first new age group U20 championships in the 100m.

Despite obtaining an injury, he ran brilliantly to a fantastic first place finish in 11.52sec and win a gold medal and the county championship title.

Dylan Ellis ran in the U20 100m at the Essex Championships, his first time at the event, and got a fantastic personal best (PB) in his heat of 11.19.

Photo finish

He qualified for the final and then went on to finish in fourth place with the same time as the person in third of 11.11, with their positions decided in a photo finish.

It marked an amazing second PB of the day for the young sprinter.

Harry Woodall also ran a brilliant PB of 11.83 in his heat at the same competition, in the U17s' 100m.

That put him through to the final as the third fastest qualifier where he finished just out of the medal positions but ran a super second PB of the day of 11.65.

Harry also competed in the 200m when he again qualified for the final, his second of the weekend, running a fantastic heat where he achieved a great third-place finish.

The final saw him finish in

sixth place in a very close race, which pitted him against a very strong field of competitors.

Shemar Boldiszar also ran in the U17 200m, completing a superb heat where he finished in second place and qualified for the final.

Again in that he ran an excellent race, in the rain, to triumph in 22.23 and be crowned county champion.

The youngster ran again in the recent Southern Men's League and achieved a PB in the 100m of 11.28.

Another PB came for Teale Cunningham with a leap of 1.65m in the high jump, in the U15 age group.

"These boys' superb performances have earned them county selection, inter county selection and some are heading for English Schools Championships and they all have shot up the county and UK rankings," said Harlow AC coach Paul Bailey.

"It has been a stellar season thus far for our athletes and their hard work is really paying off. The sprint group is coached by Vincent Lawrence, who is also the Essex county track and field manager for U17 men.

"Our numbers are growing week on week and we now have more than 50 young sprinters at the club."

Paxman twins play their part in 19 events

HARLOW Athletic Club's victory in the latest round of the Southern Men's League was all the more enjoyable as key personnel were missing through injury, illness and exams.

The cause was aided by the stamina of the Paxman twins, who filled 19 events between them, and the vital contribution of the other six athletes.

The event began with the hammer. Chris Clark threw 19.88m to claim fourth spot in the A event and Glen Paxman wasn't far behind with 19.03m to take second in the B section.

Paxman had to flit between the hammer and pole vault but it didn't seem to faze him as he jumped 2.60m to take second. Craig Snook was second in the B event reaching a height of 2.40m.

Long jump was next and it was Carl Paxman's time to shine as he jumped 5.95m for second place in the A event. His brother Glen took second in the B string.

On the track Shemar Boldiszar ran 11.3sec for first in the 100m. Glen Paxman won the B string.

In the 400m hurdles, Glen Paxman took the spoils with a time of 64sec, with Carl first in the B string.

Both men had to compete in the shot put where again Glen had the upper hand.

Donald Campbell was making his first appearance of the season and marked it with a fine finish in the 800m to take third. Liam Mistry eased to victory in the B event.

Craig Snook took second place in the A javelin, with Glen Paxman jogging over from the shot put to take a throw good enough to win the B event.

Excellent bend

Fortunately for him the high jump was close to the javelin sector so he didn't have to move too far for his next event. Once again his real opposition came from his brother and both men picked up a brace of first places.

Next on track was the 200m and Boldiszar ran an excellent bend to lead and sauntered up the home straight for the victory.

Newcomer Marvin Luchoo ran well to win the B race in a time of 25.8. Campbell and Mistry returned for the 5000m, Mistry taking second in the A race and Campbell first in the B race.

The Paxman twins then took both first places in the triple jump.

The discus competitors were fighting against torrential rain. Craig Snook managed to get a throw out good enough for third place.

In the 1500m, Mistry came second, dipping just under five minutes and Campbell picked up first place in the B race.

The final events on the track were the 4x100m and 4x400m relays and by this stage it was a straight fight between Luton and Harlow for the victory.

Harlow won both relays. Kai Whyne, making his men's league debut, ran an excellent first bend that ensured the quartet were never behind. The 4x400m was also dominated by Harlow who romped home, clear by almost a quarter of the track.

The victory ensures Harlow's place in the play-off finals as they can now finish no lower than second, with two teams from each division going forward to Eton in August.

The final match of the regular season takes place at Bexley in July where Harlow will be pushing to be champions.

Steve returns as new head coach for Essex Leopards

NEW COACH: Steve Ogunjimi

FORMER point guard Steve Ogunjimi has been appointed as the Essex Leopards' new head coach for the 2015/16 season.

The 38-year-old will take the helm at the Division One champions with immediate effect, and will become the Harlow and Brentwood-based Big Cats' fifth head coach in their 12-year history.

After a college career in the USA, London-born Ogunjimi spent a year with the Big Cats' old rivals London Towers before joining the original Leopards for the 1999/2000 season. He moved to Newcastle Eagles before returning to the Big Cats for their final season in the BBL in 2003/04.

Ogunjimi returned to play for the Leopards midway through their debut season before helping them win the National Cup in 2005/06. He also played at London United before coaching in the lower divisions of the National League.

"I am very happy to be able to take this opportunity to coach the Leopards basketball team this season," said Ogunjimi.

"The Leopards organisation and its supporters have played a very big part in my journey as a player and I am now lucky enough to be able to continue that relationship as the head coach of the team.

"The team has a familiar core group of quality, hard working players that I am very excited in going to battle with to continue the winning culture of this great organisation.

"I am really looking forward to the challenge."

The Big Cats' general manager Dave Ryan added: "We had a lot of really strong candidates for the job, and we'd like to thank those who came to meet us.

"But Steve was our unanimous choice, and we believe he can do a great job at the Leopards.

"It's a tough ask for him to take over at the reigning champions but we believe he has the personality and ability to work with the players who won the title and take us on to greater things.

"I've known Steve from the days when he crossed from the dark side to become a Leopard, and I think our fans will really love his enthusiasm for our club – that shone through from the minute he signed for the club, and I'm sure it's going to be a lot of fun working with him."

Ogunjimi's first game in charge of the Division One champions will be on September 4 when Team USA Select appear at the Brentwood Centre (8pm tip-off).

The Leopards have also announced the first sponsorship deal in their 11-year history. They have linked up with Ongar-based ICT specialists Levett Consultancy on an initial one-year deal and will be known as the Levett Essex Leopards.

"It's great to have Levett Consultancy on board," said Ryan. "They're enthusiastic and keen to help us expand both on the court and also with our community programme in schools."

Athletes soar to national success here and in the US

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertsexnews.co.uk

IT has been another phenomenal week for Harlow's athletes, with success both in this country and in the USA.

Both Harlow Athletic Club youngsters Naomi Harryman and Will Marklew have qualified for September's English Schools' national finals.

Meanwhile, club-mate Richard Chiassaro produced some more fantastic displays in the Indianapolis to cement his place in the world top six.

Chiassaro was handed a special invitation to compete in the Indianapolis International last weekend.

He made the finals in all three events, clocking 14.39sec in the 100m, which improved his time at the Swiss Championships.

He clocked 49.24 in the 400m which was half a second outside his personal best (PB).

In the 800m he clocked 1min 41.8sec.

Stunning

He came second in all three races.

Chiassaro previously competed in the US Paralympics National Track & Field Championships in Minnesota, producing a stunning win in the 200m.

He was second in the 100m and 400m.

Back in England, Naomi was representing Hertfordshire (where she now attends school) in the heptathlon at Reading.

She was leading after six events but eventually came third after the 800m, ending her bid to qualify for the Great Britain team for the World Junior Championships in Colombia.

She was competing against girls older than her.

She ran a PB in the 100m hurdles (15.6) and threw massive

PBs in the shot (10.33m) and javelin (33.89m).

She jumped season bests in the long jump (5.81m) and high jump (1.66m) and a season best in the 800m (2:38.09).

Her overall score of 4744 points ranks her fifth in the UK for heptathlon in the U20 women.

She is already ranked seventh in the long jump.

She will compete in the English Schools' Track & Field Championships at Gateshead in July, competing in long jump.

She will compete in the heptathlon at the English Combined Events Championships at Bedford in September.

Completing a memorable week-end for the Harryman family, Naomi's sister Beth, a student at St Mark's School and also a member of Harlow Athletic Club, represented Essex in the regional qualifier for the English Schools' Championships.

Beth, 14, represented Essex Schools in the junior girls' pentathlon in Chelmsford.

Beth came seventh overall with a PB in the 800m (2:53.05).

She also competed in four other events on the same day (long jump, high jump, shot and hurdles).

She is ranked 23rd in the UK. Meanwhile, Will has earned his place at the English Schools' Combined Events Championships in September.

This was after a series of stunning performances at the regional finals in Reading.

Competing for Hertfordshire

Schools in the U20 decathlon, he was the youngest in his age group as he will only turn 17 next week.

Will was joint first in his 100m heat and second in the shot put.

Will won the 400m (51.8) and secured a PB in the pole vault of 3.40m.

After a superb series of throws in Will's strongest event, javelin, he triumphed in the 1500m in his second best ever time of 4.34m.

This gave him second place with 6299 points.

So proud of World Cup star Casey

EVEN if Harlow's Casey Stoney and her fantastic England Lionesses lost their Women's World Cup semi-final in the early hours of this morning (Thursday), it will take away nothing from the team's stunning achievement.

When Mark Sampson's side defeated hosts Canada 2-1 in the quarter-final - when Stoney was a late substitute - England's women qualified for the last four for the first time in the nation's history.

Defender Stoney, 33, tweeted: "I have waited 15 years, 121 caps and 3 World Cups to say we are in the WORLD CUP SEMI FINAL!!! Could not be prouder of this team...Thank you."

Another tweet of hers read: "Thank you to the 1.6m people that stayed up into the early hours to cheer us on and to those in the stadium who did England proud."

Nemesis

The Lionesses took on Japan in the semi-final at 12.30am (BST), and barring England's old nemesis penalty kicks - this was due to conclude at about 2.30am.

Arsenal Ladies star Stoney, who lives in Old Harlow, was sent on in the closing stages of the last eight match and her experience was vital as England held on to their 2-1 lead.

She started in their group game against Colombia, which secured an important three points and took England into the last 16.

She did not feature in the 2-1 win over Norway in the first knock-out stage.

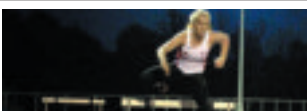

However, her tournament nous has been pivotal in helping the younger members of the England squad to settle.

Stoney is a mother of eight-month-old twins through IVF treatment.
